This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Preface

This catalogue of 2,500 books has been compiled primarily to help the children who use the Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh. It is hoped, however, that it will serve also as a select bibliography of children's reading for the use of mothers, teachers and librarians.

The catalogue is the joint work of the Catalogue department and the Children's department of the Library, the selection having been made by the latter, while all the bibliographical work was done under the direction of the Chief of the Catalogue department and the proof revised by the Editor of Publications.

The selection is based on ten years' conscientious study of literature for children and observation of the use of books by the children who frequent the various agencies of this Library—children's rooms, home libraries, school-room collections and deposit stations. To make the catalogue more valuable, a tentative list of the fiction selected was submitted to a number of experts in library work, whom we wish to thank for many valuable suggestions. The lists of books on scientific and technical subjects were revised by specialists in these lines.

The annotations are for the use of children. Best reading is indicated by an asterisk, exception being made in the case of miscellaneous collections of poetry. No attempt has been made to include books published in 1908 and many valuable books which would have been included are unfortunately out of print. Reference books, magazines, unbound picture-books and books in foreign languages have been omitted. English prices have been given in cases where they are lower than the American, but American editions may be obtained. In some cases, where prices were not given in the publishers' lists, they have been omitted.

An effort has been made to make the subject index as complete as possible. It will be noticed, however, that many subjects are omitted and that some others are not adequately represented. This is due to the fact that the Library has been unable so far to procure books which are considered suitable for children on these subjects. The headings selected are those which will be used in the dictionary card catalogues in our children's rooms. Single poems and fairy tales have not been indexed by subjects.

*Fables; retold by Mary Godolphin. McKay, $.50; Routledge, 1s. 6d.

In words of one syllable.

Indicates the best reading.*

Æsop. j888 A25f1

*Fables; told anew and their history traced by Joseph Jacobs. 1894. Macmillan, $1.50.

Some of the fables are, The wolf and the lamb.—The lion's share.—The frogs desiring a king.—The goose with the golden eggs.—Belling the cat.

Many pictures.

The name of Æsop, the slave of Samos, is so identified with the fable in literature that almost all the fables that have appeared in the western world have been sheltered at one time or another under the shadow of his name. In the struggle for existence among all these fables a certain number stand out as the most effective and familiar.

Æsop. j888 A25h

*A hundred fables; tr. by Sir Roger L'Estrange, with an introduction by Kenneth Grahame. Lane, $1.50.

Many pictures by Percy J. Billinghurst.

Austen, Jane. jA933p

*Pride and prejudice. Macmillan, 3s. 6d.

Finds its motive in the pride of birth and place that characterizes the really generous and high-minded hero, Darcy, and the fierce resentment of his claims to love and respect on the part of the clever, high-tempered heroine, Elizabeth Bennet.

"After De Foe and Goldsmith she was the first to write a thoroughly artistic novel in English, and she surpassed Goldsmith as far in method as she refined upon De Foe in material. Among her contemporaries she was as easily first as Shakespere among the Elizabethan dramatists; and in the high excellencies of symmetrical form, force of characterization, clearness of conception, simplicity and temperance of means, she is still supreme: that girl who began at twenty with such a masterpiece as 'Pride and prejudice,' and ended with such a masterpiece as 'Persuasion' at forty-two!" Howells's Heroines of fiction.

A beautiful edition of this English classic, with many illustrations by the brothers Rhead.

The "Pilgrim's progress," one of the great books of the world, was written in prison by John Bunyan, tinker and preacher, who died in London in 1688.

"This book, it chalketh out before thine eyes
The man that seeks the everlasting prize:
It shews you whence he comes, whither he goes,
What he leaves undone, also what he does:
It also shews you how he runs, and runs
Till he unto the gate of glory comes."

Bunyan's Apology for his book.

A story of battle and prison, of peril and escape.

Goss, Warren Lee. j973.7 G69r

Recollections of a private; a story of the Army of the Potomac. 1890. Crowell, $1.50.

"The book is interesting as showing what a man experiences as he develops from a recruit to a veteran under the pressure of active service...One charming characteristic marks the whole—a simple, sincere, unboastful but genuine patriotism, that leaves no doubt as to the honesty of the author, whether fighting or writing. While deploring the necessity that required force to preserve the Union, he is filled with admiration for the personal gallantry of the men who supported the losing and lost cause. He nowhere scolds, and throughout the book presents an unconscious model of the typical Union volunteer." Nation, 1890.

Lear, Edward. j827 L45b

*Book of nonsense. 1899. Warne, 6s.

Humorous pictures and verses.

"There was an Old Derry down Derry,
Who loved to see little folks merry;
So he made them a book,
And with laughter they shook
At the fun of that Derry down Derry."

Edward Lear was born in 1812. When only 15 years of age he began to draw "for bread and cheese," but only did, he says, "uncommon queer shop-sketches." The first of his delightful "Nonsense books," which Ruskin called "the most beneficent and innocent of all books yet produced," was published in 1846. The following lines about himself were written by Mr Lear for a young lady of his acquaintance:

"How pleasant to know Mr. Lear!
Who has written such volumes of stuff!

Some think him ill-tempered and queer,
But a few think him pleasant enough.
* * * * * * * * * * *
He weeps by the side of the ocean,
He weeps on the top of the hill;
He purchases pancakes and lotion,
And chocolate shrimps from the mill.
* * * * * * * * * * *
He reads, but he cannot speak Spanish,
He cannot abide ginger beer;
Ere the days of this pilgrimage vanish,
How pleasant to know Mr. Lear!"

Lear, Edward. j827 L45

Shall maids and their lovers remember the doom
Of her, who lies sleeping among the Pearl Islands,
With nought but the sea-star to light up her tomb.
And still, when the merry date-season is burning,
And calls to the palm-groves the young and the old,
The happiest there, from their pastime returning
At sunset, will weep when thy story is told."

Shakespeare, William. j822.33 O31

*As you like it, with preface, glossary, &c. by Israel Gollancz. 1907. Dent, 1s. 6d. (Temple Shakespeare.)

"The sweetest and happiest of all Shakespeare's comedies." Dowden.

"They say he is already in the forest of Arden, and a many merry men with him; and there they live like the old Robin Hood of England. They say many young gentlemen flock to him every day, and fleet the time carelessly, as they did in the golden world."

Shakespeare, William. j822.33 O5

*Comedy of errors, with preface, glossary, &c. by Israel Gollancz. 1906. Dent, 1s. 6d. (Temple Shakespeare.)

The comical blunders of one eventful day caused by the resemblance of twin brothers and of their twin slaves.

Shakespeare, William. j822.33 S71

*Hamlet, with preface, glossary, &c. by Israel Gollancz. 1907. Dent, 1s. 6d. (Temple Shakespeare.)

"This is that Hamlet the Dane...who made that famous soliloquy on life, who gave the advice to the players...he who talked with the grave-diggers, and moralized on Yorick's skull; the school-fellow of Rosencrantz and Guildenstern at Wittenberg; the friend of Horatio; the lover of Ophelia; he that was mad and sent to England; the slow avenger of his father's death; who lived at the court of Horwendillus five hundred years before we were born, but all whose thoughts we seem to know as well as we do our own, because we have read them in Shakspeare." Haslitt.

Shakespeare, William. j822.33 X1

*Historie of the life & death of King John, with preface, glossary, etc. by Israel Gollancz. 1905. Dent, 1s. 6d. (Temple Shakespeare.)

Of the troubled reign of King John and the fate of the unfortunate prince Arthur of Brittany.

Shakespeare, William. j822.33 T1

*Julius Cæsar, with preface, glossary, &c. by Israel Gollancz. 1906. Dent, 1s. 6d. (Temple Shakespeare.)

"This was the noblest Roman of them all,
All the conspirators, save only he,
Did that they did in envy of great Cæsar;
He only, in a general honest thought
And common good to all, made one of them.
His life was gentle, and the elements
So mix'd in him that Nature might stand up
And say to all the world, 'This was a man.' "

Mark Antony's eulogy of Brutus in the play of "Julius Cæsar." Some of the famous scenes are the meeting of the conspirators, the speech of Mark Antony over the dead body of Cæsar and the quarrel of Brutus and Cassius.

Shakespeare, William. j822.33 W11

*King Henry IV, with preface, glossary, &c. by Israel Gollancz. 2v. 1906. Dent, 1s. 6d. (Temple Shakespeare.)

Here is "the headstrong valour of Hotspur, the wonderful wit of Falstaff, the vanquished rebels, who wound England with their horses' hoofs, the noble rivalry of Henry Percy and Henry Prince of Wales—

'O, would the quarrel lay upon our heads;
And that no man might draw short breath to-day,
But I and Harry Monmouth.' "

Shakespeare, William. j822.33 W3

*King Henry V, with preface, glossary, &c. by Israel Gollancz. 1906. Dent, 1s. 6d. (Temple Shakespeare.)

"I see you stand like greyhounds in the slips,
Straining upon the start. The game's afoot:
Follow your spirit, and upon this charge
Cry 'God for Harry, England, and Saint George!' "

From the speech before the walls of Harfleur in the play about King Henry the Fifth and his famous victories in France. The wooing of the French princess, Katherine, is one of the famous scenes.

Shakespeare, William. j822.33 T31

*King Lear, with preface, glossary, &c. by Israel Gollancz. 1907. Dent, 1s. 6d. (Temple Shakespeare.)

The tragic story of Lear, king of Britain, dishonored by the cruel ingratitude of his two unnatural daughters; and the unhappy fate of the lovely and faithful Cordelia, youngest of the sisters.

Shakespeare, William. j822.33 T51

*Macbeth, with preface, glossary, &c. by Israel Gollancz. 1906. Dent, 1s. 6d. (Temple Shakespeare.)

"The castle of Macbeth, round which 'the air smells wooingly,' and where 'the temple-haunting martlet builds,' has a real subsistence in the mind; the Weird Sisters meet us in person on 'the blasted heath;' the 'air-drawn dagger' moves slowly before our eyes; the 'gracious Duncan,' the 'blood-boultered Banquo' stand before us; all that passed through the mind of Macbeth passes, without the loss of a tittle, through ours." Hazlitt.

Shakespeare, William. j822.33 P31

*Merchant of Venice, with preface, glossary, &c. by Israel Gollancz. 1907. Dent, 1s. 6d. (Temple Shakespeare.)

The sealing of the fateful bond between Antonio and the crafty Shylock, the choosing of the caskets, and the playful differences about the rings, are some of the best passages, while "the whole of the trial-scene, both before and after the entrance of Portia, is a masterpiece of dramatic skill."

Shakespeare, William. qj822.33 P73

*Midsummer-night's dream, for young people; introductory story, decorations and illustrations by L. F. Perkins. 1907. Stokes, $1.50.

Shakespeare, William. j822.33 P72

*Midsummer night's dream, with preface, glossary, &c. by Israel Gollancz. 1906. Dent, 1s. 6d. (Temple Shakespeare.)

"Shall we mention the remonstrance of Helena to Hermia, or Titania's description of her fairy train, or her disputes with Oberon about the Indian boy, or Puck's account of himself and his employments, or the Fairy Queen's exhortation to the elves to pay due attendance upon her favorite, Bottom; or Hippolyta's description of a chase, or Theseus' answer?" Hazlitt.

Shakespeare, William. j822.33 U32

*Romeo & Juliet, with preface, glossary, &c. by Israel Gollancz. 1906. Dent, 1s. 6d. (Temple Shakespeare.)

A love tale of old Verona.

"For never was a story of more woe
Than this of Juliet and her Romeo."

Shakespeare, William. j822.33 Q3

*Taming of the shrew, with preface, glossary, &c. by Israel Gollancz. 1906. Dent, 1s. 6d. (Temple Shakespeare.)

A comedy in which it is shown how Katharine, famous in Padua as Katharine the Shrew, became a most obedient and dutiful wife.

Shakespeare, William. j822.33 Q52

*The tempest, with preface, glossary, &c. by Israel Gollancz. 1906. Dent, 1s. 6d. (Temple Shakespeare.)

A romantic play, the scene of which is an enchanted isle. The principal characters are: "the stately magician, Prospero, driven from his dukedom, but around whom (so potent is his art) airy spirits throng numberless to do his bidding; his daughter Miranda ('worthy of that name'), to whom all the power of his art points, and who seems the goddess of the isle; the princely Ferdinand, cast by fate upon the haven of his happiness in this idol of his love; the delicate Ariel; the savage Caliban, half brute, half demon." The following is one of the famous passages:

"And, like the baseless fabric of this vision,
The cloud-capp'd towers, the gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples, the great globe itself,
Yea, all which it inherit, shall dissolve,
And, like this insubstantial pageant faded,
Leave not a rack behind. We are such stuff
As dreams are made on, and our little life
Is rounded with a sleep."

*Snow-bound; The tent on the beach, and other poems. 1896. Houghton, $.60.

A winter's idyl.

"Unwarmed by any sunset light
The gray day darkened into night,
A night made hoary with the swarm
And whirl-dance of the blinding storm,
As zigzag, wavering to and fro,
Crossed and recrossed the wingéd snow;
And ere the early bedtime came
The white drift piled the window-frame,
And through the glass the clothes-line posts
Looked in like tall and sheeted ghosts."
From Snowbound.

Publications of the Library Now in Print

In the following list wherever two prices are given the first is that for which the publication is sold at the Library only. All prices are strictly net except for individual publications ordered in lots of twenty or of one hundred. Remittances should be made payable to the order of the Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh.

Classified Catalogue of the Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh.

FIRST SERIES, 1895–1902. 1907. 3 vol. 3,890 pp. $12.00.

SECOND SERIES, 1902–1906. 1908. 2 vol. 2,020 pp. $5.00.

Bound in English buckram with gilt tops. Include full author and subject indexes. The two series are arranged on the same general plan and comprise in five volumes a complete catalogue of all the books in the Library from 1895 to 1906 inclusive.

The same [in pamphlet form].

This edition, the parts of which were issued at low prices from time to time as completed, was intended primarily for use in the city which supports the Library. Little demand was expected from any other source. Each part is encased in a stout manila cover and contains an author index. All except parts 1–3 of the first series have individual title-pages, and each except part 1 of the first series has both a synopsis of classification and a prefatory explanation.

FIRST SERIES, 1895–1902. 10 parts. 1903–07.

Part 1. General Works. 1907. 68 pp. 10 cents, postpaid.
